Ex2:

Starting from your work in Ex1, we want to divide the html page into multiple pages: 1 main page, called “index.html”, which includes the quick links. The other pages (“france.html”, “japan.html” and “egypt.html”) contain the country’s information respectively.

We want to be able to navigate from “index.html” to the other pages using the quick links.

We want to be able to navigate back to “index.html” from the other pages using a “Back to Home” quick link.
